

Media Studies at Norbury High

Overview

The English and Media Faculty at Norbury High aims to provide a broad, challenging, balanced and culturally rich and fulfilling programme of study for students of all backgrounds, preferences and abilities. All students have access to our diverse curriculum through careful planning and scaffolded learning; this is an integral part of the faculty's attitude to delivering the curriculum and an area we pride ourselves in. Learners are stretched and material is pitched to a high and challenging standard so that students feel both nurtured, supported and inspired in their learning and goals.

Key Stage 4 Media Studies

Students will sit OCR GCSE media exams at the end of year 11.

The GCSE course encourages students to study the media in an academic context and apply the knowledge and understanding gained to their own media productions. Learners develop critical thinking skills as they study the media in both global and historical contexts.
